He promised to create a new 6th republic in France while he is running for the French Presidential campaign, representing now the left wing. Here is the content of his speech after the announcement of his victory.

BENOIT HAMON WINS WITH 58, 88% AGAINST 41, 12% FOR MANUEL VALLS

"Your mobilisation is a sign of a vibrant and vibrant layer and gives me considerable strength to represent you for this presidential election. The left turns to the future and wants to win.

I address a greeting to Manuel Valls but we will not be irreducible when we have to face opponents. You are the valiant heart of France. With gravity and lucidity and responsibility tonight, it is not a weight but an impetus. I will embody the role of Francois Mitterrand, Lionel Jospin, Segolene Royal to take new paths and your convictions. Faced with a privileged left and the destructive extreme right we are facing the world and with a desirable future. All encounters have strengthened me in a desire for a nation that is loving justice and freedom and whose conservatism awakens the fears of yesterday. We want, and we have love in work and with work. Faced with the scarcity of work and precarious work and the brown out, I will not resign myself to the fatality and I want to set up the universal income that will not suffer the fatality. Benoit Hamon adds "We are going to rebuild France which she can be proud of itself"

BENOIT HAMON WANTS TO CREATE A 6TH REPUBLIC

Our economy needs a new environment that is committed to the energy transition and protection of biodiversity and to create the 6th Republic and a school with beautiful principles of secularism that will be the word of cohesion. Our fears will not be irreducible when it comes to facing our opponents.-----

I do not hold the truth and I do not believe in a providential man but I believe in the "WE" and be positive and happy. Tomorrow I want to gather the socialists because it is my political family and devoted 30 years and it is due Francois Mitterrand that "unity of the left is the talisman of its success" and it will be necessary to bring together the ecologists despite the different ideas So many but on Mondays I will propose to all the candidates of this primary including Jean-Luc, Melenchon and Yves Jadot to create an openly social, ecological and democratic unit and to speak to the youth. "Each generation is a new people," said Toqueville, "it is up to you to decide which people you want to be and your energy and creative will show the voice towards the other Frenchmen. The pressure of Donald Trump in the US and Putin on the Middle East, as well as terrorism and climate change are challenges not to be taken with fear in the belly and to gather the French around a desirable future and build a proud France Of itself." End of Speech
